Line or Section

1. Enter on line 1 the amount of cash on hand at the beginning of the period.

2. Enter on line 2 the amount of outstanding advances made to third parties, brought forward from the previous accounting period.

3. Enter in this section the amount of each receipt during the accounting period showing pertinent data, i.e., method or source of acquisition and applicable rate of exchange, if indigenous currency. If more space is required to explain receipts, prepare receipt form, number and attach hereto. In every case, completely identify the source of receipts.

4. Enter on this line the amount to be accounted for which shall be the sum of amounts shown in 1, 2, and 3.

5. Each amount listed in this section shall be supported by a voucher consisting of either the receipt obtained from the payee or in lieu thereof a certification explaining the lack of a receipt. If the number of entries exceeds the available space they may be consolidated as one entry in section 5 and supported by a listing of the individual entries on a separate sheet.

6. Enter on this line the amount of any refunds of advances by the advancee indicating whether by cash, check, or money order.

7. Advances made to third parties which remain outstanding at the end of the accounting period shall be consolidated and the total entered as a single amount on this line supported by a listing on a separate sheet. Final credit will not be given for disbursements which are advances to be accounted for. When accountings for advances are obtained, list as expenses or refunds of cash, as appropriate.

8. Enter on this line the amount of cash on hand, or if the amount of the disbursements exceeds the amount advanced the balance due the advancee shall be shown in parenthesis, i.e. ( ), and treated as a minus amount in arriving at the "Total Accounted For", line 9.

9. Reflect on this line the "Total Accounted For" which must agree with the amount shown on line 4, "Total To Account For".

Dear [redacted]

I enclose an accounting of funds expended from our [redacted] through December 31, 1965. The apparent discrepancy in the two previous accountings submitted lay in their failure to include overhead costs; the present report supercedes the latter of the two reports previously submitted.

Thank you for calling our oversight to our attention, I hope the present financial report will be satisfactory to the sponsors of our [redacted] grant.

Best regards to you and your colleagues.

SUBJECT : Delinquent Accounting
[redacted], Subproject 120

1. The records of TSD/BSF indicate that an accounting is now past due from [redacted], Subproject 120. The last accounting received from subproject 120 was for the period, 1 August 1961 to 29 February 1964. It is requested that your office obtain the past due accounting and forward this accounting to TSD/BSF for processing.

2. In reviewing the subproject-120 file we find a letter, dated 28 October 1965, from the principal investigator which indicates the accounting was to have been prepared and forwarded momentarily. As of this date the accounting has not been received.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

SUBJECT : Orientation of Research on MKULTRA #120

1. A request was received from [redacted] for permission to reorient his research to follow new leads; to utilize the monies remaining in the [redacted] grant in his name. He also requested this permission be granted without formal rebudgeting of the unexpended funds, since his previous budget would not be significantly disturbed; i.e., Instead of supporting the work of a technician, funds will support a research assistant to collect, analyze and summarize data at his direction. [redacted] will receive no stipend from the funds.

2. The research project was discussed in depth with [redacted] This is summarized in his letter of 3 July 1964.

3. Permission was granted for the reorientation and continuation of the work. The funds will be spent over a course of two years. Accountings will be rendered 12 months from this date, and at the conclusion of the 2-year period.

[redacted]

Dear Sir:

In my last report on April 23, 1964, I pointed out that a considerable amount of non-experimental work had necessarily to be done with the aid of funds received from the [redacted]. It becomes increasingly apparent, in fact, that a major problem in contemporary pharmacology is not the collection of more data or the formulation of new hypotheses, but reformulation of older data and the development of methods by which new information can be readily compared and integrated with the old. The major problem is data handling, not data acquisition.

My last report indicated how the trend of our research had been modified to take these newer problems into account: non-experimental work was deferred to permit developing a consistent view of the mode of action of anesthetic agents, and a consistent view point on drug absorption, using data already available.

I should like to propose that these new, non-experimental leads be followed and that the monies remaining in the [redacted] Foundation funds granted in my name be used to support this work.

Specifically, I propose investigations in the following areas:

1. Testing the hypothesis that human pharmacological data of heterogenous origins - and time and place of publication - can be collected under the direction of a pharmacologist, pooled and re-analyzed statistically to yield data commeasurable with those obtained by prospective, rather than retrospective, experimental design. Case reports of drug intoxications and inadvertancies, for example, are published frequently; ordinarily the pool of such reports are analyzed only qualitatively. We propose to investigate the possibility of quantitative analysis of such data, to yield

120-2

[redacted]

July 3, 1964

coherent quantitative descriptions of drug syndromes in man which could not (conveniently, economically, ethically, or what have you) be obtained by direct experimentation. To the extent that the hypothesis is confirmed, a large body of pharmacological information that has already been collected can be made available and useable.

2. Using the descriptions of pharmacological effects in man, obtained as in #1, and the results of prospective experimentation in human pharmacology, to begin a systematic study of the comparative pharmacology of selected drug classes, most probably those which affect the central nervous system, or the blood-forming organs. The ultimate pertinence of animal experimentation to predicting drug effects in man depends on acquiring a body of information about drug effects in man that permits quantitative comparison with the effects obtained in animals. Such human pharmacological data as involves the effects of large doses or the production of "toxic effects" can be obtained only by systematic evaluation of published data.

3. Formulate explicit definitions of pharmacological terms which can permit precise and unequivocal identification of pharmacological phenomena and can facilitate communication among pharmacologists and between pharmacologists and other scientists. A brief review of the many present uses of words such as "synergism" and "potentiation" will quickly demonstrate the need for standardization of pharmacological nomenclature. Work in #3 will be carried on both before, and concurrently, with #1 and #2.

There will, I think, be no necessity for formal rebudgeting of the unexpended funds still available to me from the [redacted] grant. Rather than supporting the work of a technician, funds will support a research assistant to collect, analyze, and summarize data at my direction; from the point of view of the [redacted] this assistant will probably bear the title of secretary or research secretary. Rather than being used for laboratory supplies and services, funds will be used for photoduplication of published materials, office supplies and equipment, computer service and materials, etc. I will continue to receive no stipend from these funds.

With this orientation to the research, I estimate that the remaining funds can be spent over the course of two years. The results obtained will, I am sure, provide a solid basis upon which to attack other problems of mutual interest, problems which have long gone unsolved because of our lack of information and methods for systematic study of comparative and human pharmacology. I respectfully suggest that, barring special communication from you, I proceed with the program I have outlined above.

As a supplement to my last report, by the way, I enclose two copies of the review article on drug absorption mentioned in the report. Copies of the review were not available at the time the report was submitted.

Sincerely yours,

B

1. During January 1964, I called [redacted] and requested that the principal investigator on the research project there (MKULTRA, Subproject No. 120) forward an accounting for the funds involved ($21,827) as soon as possible and directly to me rather than to [redacted]. The investigator agreed to request such an accounting from the University Controller and to send it along as soon as it was available to him.

2. Approximately six weeks later, March, 1964, Dr. [redacted] of TSD/EB, reported to me that he had talked to the same investigator and had also requested a final accounting. He received the same assurance that I had previously gotten.

INSTRUCTIONS

1. If funds, in the form of other than U.S. Dollars were on hand, received, or disbursed during the accounting period, all pertinent data, i.e., rate, method of acquisition, etc., must be shown. If advances have been made to third parties, enter the total of such advances outstanding at the beginning of the accounting period on line 1a.

2. If more space is required to explain receipts, prepare receipt form, number and attach hereto. In every case, completely identify the source of receipts.

3. Attach a voucher for each expenditure and assign a number thereto in numerical sequence. The voucher may be the receipt obtained from the payee. When a receipt is not obtained, prepare a certificate and attach as a voucher. When space on form is not sufficient to list all vouchers, prepare a listing on a separate sheet and enter the total under item 3. If advances to third parties are outstanding at the close of the accounting period, attach an itemized list and enter the total on line 3a.

4. Final credit will not be given for disbursements which are advances to be accounted for. When accounting for advances are obtained, list as expenditures or refund of cash, as appropriate.

5. Total receipts entered on the line "Total to Account For" must agree with the total disbursements entered on the line following "Total Accounted For."

MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

SUBJECT : Project MKULTRA,
Subproject # 120

1. The above subproject is one of those which serves a continuing interest and need of TSD/BB. The grantee has adequately explained and justified in writing (documented in the letter file) the lower rate of spending indicated by the attached interim financial report.

2. The grantee has received permission from the sponsor to proceed at this lower rate until the work originally envisioned has been completed and the committed funds are expended. He has agreed to furnish a final financial report at that time. The technical aspects of the project are proceeding satisfactorily.
