1. On Friday, 23 May 1952, the writer and [redacted] had a brief discussion along Artichoke lines with [redacted], who is at present assisting [redacted] with lectures in the [redacted] A C G

2. Since [redacted] had previously o.k.ed conversation with [redacted] the writer and [redacted] talked with [redacted] in more or less general terms concerning the use of chemicals, drugs, hypnosis, and other techniques in the extracting of information from recalcitrant persons. [redacted] stated that in his police work he had, upon quite a number of occasions, worked with individuals using the above mentioned techniques; some with success and some without success. He also stated he had a great many friends in the [redacted] area who were practicing psychiatrists and knew that they had employed narco-analysis and he thought hypno-analysis ~~and he thought~~ in connection with their professional work. [redacted] seemed very interested and quite willing to assist the Artichoke work and stated he was returning Saturday, 24 May 1952, to [redacted] and would start immediately to assemble any information he had or could obtain along these lines.
