My dear [redacted]

This is to inform you that I am sending to you under separate cover your very interesting and valuable pamphlets in connection with the material we discussed on Tuesday, 26 February 1952.

I have made photostatic copies of the pamphlets for our files.

The writer wishes to personally thank you for your very valuable assistance and co-operation and for the many ideas which you advanced in connection with the matters we discussed.

The writer is considering a trip to [redacted] H-B/3 possibly in the near future and, if it can be arranged, may return via [redacted] for the privilege of another discussion with you along the lines of our last talk. The writer would, of course, let you know in advance if such a visit is contemplated.

Again let me thank you for your assistance and important advice.

Very truly yours,

[redacted] A
