2. One of these days will be devoted to general discussion of the over-all defense research and development program between [redacted] and [redacted]. The other day is to be devoted to discussion of the whole subject of research and development in relation to the BLUEBIRD problem. CIA is invited to provide not more than two people to participate in this latter discussion. It is desirable to keep the attendance in these sessions as small as possible and [redacted] would appreciate our limiting US participants to four--two from [redacted] and two from CIA.

3. The meeting and discussion of BLUEBIRD are to be understood as entirely unofficial in nature, involving discussions between individuals concerned with this problem rather than official meetings of government representatives. The code word used herein is, of course, our own designation and not officially recognized throughout the group.
