On Tuesday, 30 March 1954, SI and II experimentation and research was carried on in Room 20, Building 13 with the following subjects present: [redacted] and [redacted]. In addition to Mr. [redacted] and the writer, [redacted] attended in the capacity of an observer.

Work was begun with the slow, general, relaxing type of induction with all hands participating. After this was completed, [redacted] tested [redacted] using an eye fixation method again in a slow technique. [redacted] appeared to make some headway although she still at present is not at a very high level in the work.

In view of the interesting results in the previous session, at which automatic writing was attempted, the writer tried automatic writing with all individuals present. Results were as follows: [redacted] again wrote understandable words and on re-hypnosis was able to interpret it easily. [redacted] again wrote a cyptic message and upon re-hypnosis was again able to translate. Miss [redacted] wrote a cryptic message and upon re-hypnosis was unable to interpret it. [redacted] wrote a very extensive cryptic message; however, under hypnosis she apparently didn't wish to translate the message and when specifically questioned by the writer as to why she did not wish to do do, she told the writer the message was personal and had rather not translate this but would tell the writer in the future.

Following the automatic writing, a brief, short hypnosis was run with all hands participating and with the PH suggestions previously given removed at this time.
